Event: Dandiya in school

Date: 16/10/2023

During my teaching practice at Dhaneshwari Devnandan girls high school, Danapur, Patna on 16/10/2023, I had the opportunity to organize and participate in various co-curricular activities that promote student engagement and cultural awareness. One of the notable activities was Dandya, a traditional Indian folk dance that originates from Gujarat, often performed during festivals like Navratri. The Dandya activity was conducted to foster a sense of unity, teamwork, and cultural appreciation among students, as well as to provide them with a fun break from the academic routine. It also served as an opportunity to blend physical exercise with cultural learning.

Students from different classes were encouraged to participate, regardless of their experience with the dance form. The students were enthusiastic and excited to engage in the activity, which helped break the monotony of their regular academic schedule. Teachers, including myself as a trainee, were involved in guiding and coordinating the event. Students learned about the history and significance of Dandya as part of India's rich cultural heritage. Students were encouraged to express themselves through dance, improving their confidence and creative skills.
